

FARMERS TOO HEAVILY TAXED, SETTLE DECLARES

FEDERATION CHIEF SAYS ONLY ONE STATE PUTS SUCH A BURDEN ON SOIL—MANY FARMERS HAVE ABANDONED THEIR FARMS AND HAVE TAKEN EMPLOYMENT IN CITY

In an open letter issued yesterday to the farmers of Indiana, William H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation, discussing the state tax situation, asserted that the Indiana farmer is taxed higher per acre for state, county and municipal taxes than the farmers in any other state except New Jersey.

"The Indiana farmer is hard hit," Mr. Settle declares. "Is this a reflection on our lawmakers and taxing systems?" he demands. We want to know," he continues, "because the Indiana farmer pays 70 per cent more taxes than the farmers in Illinois, Ohio and Wisconsin; 200 per cent more than the average on farms for forty-eight states."

Referring to the quadruple burden of national, state county and municipal taxes, Mr. Settle declares:

We have been too ready to pledge the lives and fortunes of posterity to the payment of debt which the generation incurring it is unable to discharge.

Many farmers in the state are working in city factories for money to pay their taxes, on account of low prices paid for farm products and high prices he is compelled to pay for the commodities he must buy. Thousands of our American farmers who purchased land during the period of high prices, making a small payment down have been obliged to give up the struggles, let land go back, lose the money they paid for it and start anew. Many thousands of renters who had substantial savings invested in farm equipment and live stock have gone through the same experience and lost everything. There have been reported to the office of the Indiana Farm Bureau as high as 138 farms in a single county lying idle, and as high as 1,700 acres in a single township.

Between 80 per cent and 90 per cent of the percentage varying in different sections, of the taxes paid by farmers is for expense within the county, the largest item being for schools and roads. Some taxes, therefore, are with in the control of the majority of the people in the county. Nevertheless, the increase in taxes is proving to be one of the most frequent subjects of complaints by farmers and rightly so.

The Indiana farmer pays $2.09 per acre for state, county and local taxes; and neighbor farmers in Illinois pay $1.23, in Ohio $1.24, in Michigan $1.58 and in Kentucky 52 cents an acre. The average of the forty-eight states is 71 cents an acre. The Department of Agriculture at Washington compiled these figures on taxes.

"When a city is pledging its credit it seems to forget that a heavy debt already is on the county on which it forms an integral part. The county freely incurs debt without apparently remembering that the state already is incumbered by a direct tax to pay interest on a debt of a state, and the state too often makes lavish use of its credit without pausing to reflect that every one of its citizens already is burdened by the tax he is paying to liquidate the debt of the nation.

When, in the end, the nation, state, county and city have each and all imposed the burdens, the citizens find that while the tax is increased four-fold the property to meet it has not experienced a similar growth. Our power in this country to accumulate burdens may certainly be regarded as peculiar to ourselves. I think we have been too ready to draw on the future, too ready to pledge the lives and fortunes of posterity to the payment of debt which the generation incurring it is unable to discharge."

The Presbyterian Church will hold its Preparatory Service for Communion this evening in the Church Auditorium at 7:30.

RICHES IN TOMBS

Jewels Buried With Rulers of Ancient Egypt.

Possibility That Wonderful Gems and Priceless Works of Art Are Still Beneath the Sands.

A popular interest in Egypt's wonderful history has been aroused by the unprecedented discoveries made at Luxor. But even the jewels unearthed in the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen are not more beautiful than many which have been previously found.

The trouble has always been that the tombs hitherto uncovered have invariably been rifled by robbers, and only the things they overlooked have been left behind.

A jewel with a wonderful history lay in a glass case of the Royal society some years ago at Burlington house, London. It was of cornelian, lapis lazuli, and turquoise, and was made by order of the pharaoh who reigned about 5,000 years ago. The king gave it to one of his court favorites and when he died it was buried with him.

A robber of ancient Egypt broke into his tomb, and upon him a heavy fate fell. In the shape of a weighty slab which formed the entrance to the sepulcher, and crushed the thief flat.

Year by year the ruined tomb with the thief's body was buried deeper and deeper, so that, like the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, it lay for long centuries hidden beneath the desert.

A few years ago Prof. Flinders Petrie and his excavating party found it. The fallen roof and the crushed body of the thief told their tale, and the excavators were encouraged to search for what they knew the thief had not been able to carry off. Thus at last they found the beautiful jewel which the court jeweler designed fifty centuries ago.

The same explorer had another stroke of luck in exploring the tomb of one of the pharaohs. It was found that at some remote period the tomb had been entered by robbers, and that the plunderers had broken off the mummified arm of his queen and hidden it in a crevice in the wall—perhaps on being alarmed—and had never returned to retrieve it.

On taking off the wrappings, the explorers found four magnificent bracelets of gold, with amethyst, turquoise, and lapis lazuli in varied and elegant adjustments. The gold work was peculiarly fine and delicate, though the metal, being pure, was soft, owing to the absence of an alloy.

On another occasion explorers were clearing the floor of the passage to a tomb when they discovered a secret receptacle which had escaped the tombriflers of bygone ages. In this secret receptacle was a little wooden box, quite rotten, filled with jewels of perfectly marvelous workmanship, which was carefully conveyed to the State museum.

The principal jewel was a breastplate of gold, encrusted with precious stones of great beauty and fine workmanship. On the breastplate were depicted two eagles guarding the tomb. The rest of the jewelry consisted of necklaces, girdles, bracelets, and scores of various little trinkets.

With the recent record find, the world has been set wondering whether, under the piled sand at the edge of the desert, there may not lie great hoards of riches, for the ancient Egyptians seem to have been in the habit of burying with their kings all their barbaric wealth.

Wisdom of Babes.

Dorothy, age five, lives in the edge of a village where two of the neighbors keep cows. One cow is kept in a small lot and is very gentle. The other usually is tied in the yard or along the street in front of the house where boys tease her. When children pass she jumps at them with a belated that sends them running in all directions.

The other day as Dorothy stood by the owner of the gentle cow she said: "I like your cow, 'cause she isn't mean to children, but when mamma sends me on an errand to Mr. —, I look to see where the cow ain't and then I go that way."

A Change for Better.

"Well, how is everything here in Petunia?" asked the recently arrived guest, who visited the hamlet sufficiently often to be mildly interested in the happenings there.

"Fine, by George! Finer than frog hair!" triumphantly replied the landlord of the tavern.

"How do you make that out? I see almost no change since I was here last, and do not observe much of anything stirring."

"No, but compared with this time last year she's booming. Then the town was slipping back. Now she's durn nigh holding her own."—Kansas City Star.

BUSINESS MEN FORM CREDIT ASSOCIATION

LIST OF PERSONS WHO DO NOT PAY THEIR ACCOUNTS WILL BE ADVERTISED IN LOCAL PAPERS AND ACCOUNTS SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION—PRINTED LISTS OF PERSONS OWING PAST DUE ACCOUNTS WILL BE IN HANDS OF EACH MERCHANT

Greencastle business men under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce have organized a Greencastle Credit Association the intent of which is to eradicate losses on bad accounts.

The intents of the association are well shown in the membership agreement. It is as follows:

We, the following merchants, to be known as THE GREENCASCADE CREDIT ASSOCIATION, for the purpose of protecting ourselves and customers from the buyer that does not make any honest attempt to meet his obligations, enters into the following agreement:—

1. To furnish the Association an alphabetical list of all accounts over due, with amounts owed by each that a compiled list may be made and used for reference as a guide for all future extension of credit.

2. That a printed list be made and handed to each member.

3. This Association shall meet every 90 days and make any changes necessary.

4. That all members be firm in using his judgement as to extending credit to anyone who, by his willful neglect of his obligations has caused his name to be placed on said list.

5. Any retail merchant or firm extending credit may become a member by contributing $2.00 and agreeing to the rules of this Association.

6. After all other efforts on the part of the creditor have failed to collect an account or reach some satisfactory arrangement, these accounts may be sold to the highest bidder at public auction by advertising in the daily papers of said city.

7. The management of this Association shall be by the "Retailers Department" of the Chamber of Commerce and such Committee as the Chairman of this department may appoint.

TRESTER SPEAKS TO HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS

A. L. Trester, permanent Secretary of the Indiana High School Athletic Association, gave a fifteen minute talk to the high school students Friday morning at chapel. Mr. Trester was introduced by Mr. Busen berg, principals of the High School. He was given a rousing reception by the student body.

Mr. Trester said that he is intensely interested in boys and girls—in fact his first interest is in boys and girls. He said he sincerely believed that the majority of them would make good citizens. In fact, the school's job is to make them into future citizens and the boy or girl who cheated in High School is only handicapping themselves for the future. Good sportsmanship should prevail in the class room as well as in games he said. A high scholastic standing should be required, not only in athletics but in every school activity.

Mr. Trester encouraged Athletics pointing out that a physically fit student makes a good student.

Mrs. Otis Browning, 410 East Hanna street was in Indianapolis on business, Thursday.

Mrs. Alex P. Zaharakos, cousin of Louis Zaharakos, proprietor of the Greek Candy Kitchen is visiting her sister, Mrs. Fofa Grago, in Pittsburgh for the next few days.

The seven year old son of H. O. Higgins, a prominent farmer of Fill more suffered a fractured left wrist while playing on the school slide at Fillmore Wednesday noon. Dr. W. R. Hutcheson of Greencastle was called and reduced the fracture.

Benjamin Linkefelter of Cincinnati Ohio, was the guest over night Wednesday of Reese Matson.

County agent Harold McNary will hold a poultry culling demonstration Friday afternoon at the farm of county commissioner W. F. Davis in Franklin township.

COMPLAINTS OF TAX PAYERS ARE HEARD THURSDAY

PHILLIP ZOERCHER, MEMBERS OF THE STATE BOARD OF TAX COMMISSIONERS, TELLS PETITIONERS THAT TIME TO CONSIDER TAX RATES IS WHEN BUDGET IS SUBMITTED

That it is the duty of the tax payer to appear before the county commissioners and the township advisory boards and complain against tax levies when the annual budgets are submitted and not after the levies have been fixed was the gist of the talk of Phillip Zoercher, member of the State Tax board, who was in Greencastle Thursday, to hear complaints against the tax levies as fixed by the county council and county commissioners.

Mr. Zoercher came in answer to a petition filed with the tax board several days ago in which petition objections to the tax rates were voiced. About forty tax payers attended the meeting which was held in the commissioners room of the court house.

Although the tax board members asked for specific instances where the tax rate was too high, none of the complainants voiced any special objection. The main contention was that the rate simply was too high.

Mr. Zoercher advocated a closer inspection of budgets, by tax-payers before tax rates are fixed. The budgets are published and dates set for hearing objections. At that time tax payers could object to specific items in the budgets and if their objections were properly based, could probably have them remedied.

Mr. Zoercher went over the county budget with the tax payers but did not indicate that he believed any of the rates could be lowered. However, he gave no decision in the case. The meeting was in session for not more than 3 hours.

FIRST NATIONAL INSTALLS A NEW BURGLAR ALARM

MOST COMPLETE SYSTEM KNOWN TO SAFEGUARD VAULT IS INSTALLED BY GREENCASCADE FINANCIAL INSTITUTION

If it is possible to make a bank burglar proof, First National Bank here has been rendered secure from the activities of the most up-to-date cracksmen by the installation of an alarm system considered to be the latest and most effective yet devised. The mechanism was manufactured and installed by the O. B. McClintock Co., of Minneapolis, who not only guarantee it to do its duty at all times but also offer the sum of $500 for the arrest and conviction of any party attempting to burglarize a bank using their system.

The new alarm is so well constructed and effective in operation that any attempt to enter the bank vault after a certain hour will cause it to ring. An intricate system of wires in the walls, ceiling and floor of the vault, connected with the outside gong, cause the alarm to sound when any part of the vault is tampered with. The doors of the vault are also effectively protected by Thermo-Electric contacts which cause the big alarms to instantly sound if these contacts are neated to a degree slightly above normal. This precludes the use of torches in burning through the door a method used successfully by burglars for many years.

An electric timer, located in the vault, controls the entire system. This is so designed that the vault door may be opened only within certain hours and a slight turn of the dial after closing hours will cause the alarm to sound. The gong itself is constructed in such a manner that attempt to silence it or sever the wires leading to it will at once result in the sounding of the alarm.

Altogether the new system for the prevention of burglaries is remarkably complete and has the appearance of being effective in every respect. It is impossible to conceive of any method that might be employed successfully by cracksmen in circumventing this delicate mechanism and effecting entrance to the vault. Patrons of the bank can therefore rest assured that their savings are thoroughly protected by the installation of the latest and most baffling alarm system that can be obtained.

THIRTY TONS OF STEEL VAULT ARE UNLOADED HERE TODAY

The twenty ton vault door and the steel lining for the mammoth new vault being installed by the Central National Bank arrived in Greencastle, Wednesday. A special truck secured in Indianapolis, came Thursday afternoon and the mammoth vault door weighing 20 tons and the steel lining were unloaded and trucked to the bank building to be installed.

Not Veneer

"I HAVE yet to find a Standard Oil service station attendant who fails to reflect the ideals of service set forth in Standard Oil Company (Indiana) advertising."

Such was the comment of an observant man who had been expressing his opinion of service in industry.

It is but a composite of the general feeling among patrons of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The spirit of service is highly developed in every employe of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), whether he wears overalls or occupies a place on the directorate.

Every man and woman of the 27,000 employes making up the personnel of this Company is obsessed with but one ambition—to do his or her part in making the Company greater in size and in service.

Such a condition cannot prevail under the lash. If it is to endure the desire to serve must be inherent in the individual.

It is a natural development that follows fair dealing, camaraderie, pleasant working conditions, just treatment, skillful management—in short, intensive organization modernized to the last degree.

That the employe in overalls should reflect the Company's ideals of service is the result of highly intensified organization.

It is eloquent of the spirit prevailing throughout the organization—of the complete understanding of purpose, between the executives and those who are on the firing line making the last turn in the great cycle of Standard Oil service.

Where complete understanding exists there are no obstacles too difficult to overcome.

Complete understanding between the management and the employe has made the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) big in size and big in service.

Complete understanding between the Company and the thirty million people of the Middle West has caused the list of shareholders in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to increase in four years' time from 4,600 to 42,706—not one of whom owns as much as 6% of the total.

The American Zinc Products Co.

THE Zinc Mill was established in 1917. Its founders were long-headed enough to see that the use of sheet zinc in America was in its infancy and that a great business could be established in the development of the use of sheet zinc for roofing.

The American Zinc Products Co. is meeting with signal success in its campaign of educating the American Public to the uses of zinc for roofs. Prior to the war, there was scarcely a zinc roof in the Nation, now, the more substantial structures are "Making the roof as Permanent as the Foundation" by installing a zinc roof.

Zinc has the property of resisting "weather-wear". When exposed to the weather a hard coating of zinc carbonate forms on the surface which prevents further encroachments by the elements. Even after the building falls in decay, the zinc of the old roof is worth its weight as zinc.

The Zinc Mill was a two-fold benefit to this community. In addition to the enormous business it is developing, it created an asset out of a liability by taking over the idle property of the old Tin Plate corporation and making a hive of industry out of it.

The company employs from one hundred to one hundred and fifty men, and because of the skill required, the wage scale is high. From its own smelter at Fort Smith, Ark the pig zinc is shipped to the local plant and is here rolled into lengths, widths and thickness to suit the trade and is shipped to local points and distant ports. There are only two other mills in the United States that roll wide zinc sheets.

The First National Bank with its Sixty years of Service to this community, takes pleasure in calling attention to the utility and service of this valuable product.

Buy Your Tires from a Firestone DEALER

At the Latest Prices—The Lowest in History

You will find the Firestone Dealer one of the stable business men of your community. He offers a clean, fresh stock, backed by a well organized service. He wants you as a permanent customer.

That is the reason he sells Firestone tires. He knows and has plenty of proof that they are the best tires on the market. He can give you the greatest value and thereby retain your trade for years.

Every day you find new proof of this unequalled value. On the 15th of this month, Firestone Tires set two new dirt track records at Syracuse when Tommy Milton slid around four turns at every mile and covered the 100 miles in 75 minutes, 33 hundredths seconds. He also established a new world's record for one mile by covering it in 42 and 28 hundredths seconds. The next four cars to finish were also equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords. Each one of them went the entire race without a stop. This and every other important race this year was won on Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords and Steam-Welded Tubes. Such performance gives you conclusive proof of their strength and durability.

Not only do race drivers use Firestone Tires as protection to their lives and the surest way to victory, but the largest tire buyers in the world insist on and buy Firestone Tires for economy and service. These buyers include the leading car manufacturers, the biggest commercial car operators and the taxicab and motorbus operators. 57,639,714 tire miles were sold to taxicab and motorbus operators in the month of August.

Think this over. You cannot afford to accept anything less than Firestone service and economy. You can buy this service and economy from any of the dealers listed below.

LOCUST GROVE HOMECOMING A BIG EVENT

GATHERING OF EX-TEACHERS AND EX-PUPILS OF MONROE TOWNSHIP SCHOOL, PROVED TO BE A MOST DELIGHTFUL OCCASION—AFFAIR WILL BE AN ANNUAL ONE—ABOUT TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY FORMER STUDENTS AND TEACHERS AND FRIENDS WERE PRESENT

The Home coming Picnic which was held at the Locust Grove School last Sunday, Sept. 30, was organized by Mrs. Lucille Hillis Mangun, of California, Mrs. Louise O'Hair Darnell, near Brick Chapel and Mrs. Belle Hanks Heaney of Greencastle. It was a success in every way, first the weather, second, the number present; third, the wonderful dinner of both quality and quantity; fourth in the programme which was given in the afternoon and last but not least, was that real feeling of good fellowship which should always exist between teacher and pupil and among the pupils themselves. The crowd numbered near 250 some coming from quite a distance. Mrs. Lucille Mangun and daughter, Catherine of California being the only representatives out of the state of Indiana. Seven teachers were present: O. B. Lane, of Bainbridge; Macy Watkins of Indianapolis; Orville Collins, of Putnamville; Miss Ella Adams, of Greencastle; Mrs. Mary Priest, of Bainbridge; Mrs. Louise Darnell and Mrs. Gussie Gorton, both near Brick Chapel. After hearty greetings among old friends, teachers and schoolmates, the baskets were emptied on a long table which had been prepared in the grove of Locust trees east of the school buildings. Anyone taking a general view of this table after being spread must surely have thought that each cook meant to bring a little more than the other one. It certainly was a "wonderful dinner." And the quality equalled the quantity.

After the dinner a programme was given consisting of music by Ralph and Jessie Priest of Indianapolis with violin and mandolin, a vocal duet by the Misses Christine Wright and Leona Oliver, violin solo by Fredrick Farmer, with his sister, Miss Helen as his accompanist; Readings by Mrs. Clara Hillis Reeves and Vera Grace Brown of Greencastle and Catherine Mangun, of California. Papers which had been written several years ago to be read at literary which was held in the school building at that time, were given, one, dating back to 1908. They recalled many laughable incidents which occurred in the school and community at that time. O. B. Lane gave a splendid address followed with talks by other teachers which brought back the thoughts of old times. One teacher, Mrs. Gussie Gorton had the idea that she could sing better than talk so she gathered a number of her old pupils together and they sang a "school days" song.

Milt Brown, who was trustee during the time most of these teachers were there, gave a talk. All were listened to with pleasure mixed with sorrow. Pleasure in the thought of being permitted once more to listen to a loved teacher's voice as they had once listened. Sorrow to know those days were gone beyond recall. It was voted to make this an annual affair. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Heaney of Greencastle were chosen to have charge of arrangements for next year. Mr. Cammack was on the ground ready to take a snap shot of the entire crowd then pictures were taken of different classes as Mrs. Mangun specially wanted a picture of her old classmates to take to her sunny California home. Altogether it was a most enjoyable affair, for every one, and we will try to make it better each year and hope more old time teachers, pupils and patrons will attend next year.
